Comments: I think it was a good idea that you added references to your blog as I believe it shows readers where you have sourced the information from, which can help them identify if they were viable resources and they are able to search the site for more information if they wish. Maybe you could have added hyperlinks when blogging about specific articles, which would have been a quick way for readers to access the information. I think you wrote lovely blogs that showed information about the topics and provided information although maybe you could have added more of your personal opinion on the topics. It was lovely to read =)
